Ethical Sourcing & Modern Slavery Statement

At Tintico Coffee, we are deeply committed to the ethical sourcing of our coffee beans, ensuring that the farmers who cultivate these precious beans are always treated with dignity and respect. Our core principle is to support direct trade, where fair compensation is provided to the farmers, empowering them to lead sustainable livelihoods and maintain control over their work.

We mainly source our green coffee from South and Central America as well as Africa through a green coffee import partner, who has been selected primarily because they share our values and follow a direct trade-only model, guaranteeing that the coffee is procured without ever resorting to the stock market where prices are fixed by bankers and not based on quality and hard work. As well as providing harvest training, price risk management, market access and logistics to farmers our partners at source support many initiatives to support the communities that produce our coffee. Some examples include:

Girls Gotta Run Foundation - Ethiopia

Renacer Coffee Agronomy Field School - El Salvador

Farmer Training - Rwanda

Quality Uplift - Honduras

Water conservation - Central America

Conflict Recovery Through Coffee - Colombia

Through this approach, we establish personal connections with partners actively working to uplift the lives of those that work in the coffee industry.

Our commitment goes beyond merely ensuring fair payment for the hard work of coffee farmers. As proud partners of Project Waterfall, a charity working towards bringing clean water to coffee-growing communities, we actively support initiatives that empower these communities, creating opportunities for growth and self-sufficiency.

We firmly believe that the freedom to choose one's work and be compensated fairly for their efforts is a fundamental human right. We stand firmly against any form of exploitative practices within our supply chain and the broader coffee industry. Our dedication to ethical sourcing is a testament to our belief in the value of every individual and their right to live a life free from oppression and injustice.

As part of our mission to combat slavery in the coffee industry, we continuously assess our supply chain, to ensure that the highest standards of ethics and social responsibility are upheld. Accountability is at the heart of our practices, allowing us to build a sustainable and positive impact on the lives of those who contribute to the coffee we cherish.

Join us in our journey to promote fairness, freedom, and compassion within the coffee community. Together, we can build a world where every cup of coffee reflects the values we hold dear.

Much Love From

Everyone Tintico Coffee
